TINSLEY ET AL - 1992 SUPPLEMENT

F O R E W O R D

With retirement in 1982, I was able to realize a long held ambition: to begin tracing my ancestral lines - back, hopefully, in my inexperience - for, perhaps, five or six generations. Relying chiefly on the work of others, though devoting a great deal of time, travel and money, I was able to exceed my highest hopes within a surprisingly short time.

In 1986 I proudly came forth with "Tinsley Et Al". Now, ten years the wiser in the practices of genealogical research, I am relieved to see that the great majority of my information was valid. Some of it, however, has proved to be otherwise. I was too eager to accept, without question, the works of others. Further hindsight says that I was too eager to produce something that I could boast about; I had overlooked families that really were not too hard to find.

There is no end to genealogy, although I find one compiler who has produced the history of one of my family lines with the opening sentence: "Adam married Eve"! But there will always be " - my beloved wife, Elizabeth -" in an ancestor's will who must be identified.

In my own case, however, and although there are still too many unidentified "Elizabeths", I have reached the point where the digging is hard. And I think it is time to publish this Supplement with addenda and errata for the benefit of those who may find it helpful as they search through the larger collections of the country to which it is being sent.

TINSLEY ET AL - SUPPLEMENT

DISCUSSION - See Pages 14 and 15, Thomas Tinsley 1 and Thomas Tinsley II

The reader should be aware of the fact that there is possibly more than one Thomas Tinsley in Virginia in the early 1600s. The will of Thomas Tinsley I (p. 14) was dated 9 Oct 1700 and was proved in New Kent County, VA, 28 (blank) 1702. Those children listed on p. 15 are named in his will, including Mary Tinsley, who married Robert Payne.

J. Estelle King in her manuscript, "Tinsleys of New Kent and Hanover Counties, Virginia" on file in the DAR Library in Washington, D. C. reports the following entry in the records of Essex County:

> "Judgement was given against Maj. William Moseley, late Sheriff of Essex County for 900 pounds of tobacco for the non-appearance of Thomas Tinsley at the suit of Robert Payne vs Thomas Tinsley's estate, June 21 1699, Essex County, Virginia. 0.3 1695-99."

It should be noted that the will of Thomas Tinsley I names as a legatee, grand-daughter, Deborah Payne, believed to be the daughter of Mary Tinsley, daughter of Thomas Tinsley I, who married Robert Payne. The date and situs of this will and the date on which it was probated can not be reconciled with the date and situs of the foregoing jugement obtained by Robert Payne against the estate.

J. Estelle King, in her manuscript, divides into two sections "TINSLEYS NEW KENT COUNTY" and "TINSLEYS ESSEX COUNRY". In the former she lists "Rent Roll - New Kent County, Virginia", Thomas Tinsley, Cornelius Tinsley, and John Tinsley. Then she goes on to say, "The Tinsleys of Hanover County, Virginia, were descendants of the ones found on the Rent Rolls of New Kent County, and it is not known if they were related to the Tinsleys of Essex County."

DISCUSSION - See Page 15 - Sarah Jackson, wife of Thomas Tinsley II

Considerable research has been done in attempting to identify the wife of Thomas Tinsley II, and I am not satisfied with any of it except the probablility that her surname was Jackson. There is strong evidence that she was the sister of Thomas Jackson with whom there was close association for many years, and who was one of the witnesses to the will of Thomas II.

Beyond that, I have seen no evidence as to the father of Thomas and Sarah Jackson. Some say-they were children of Isaac Jackson who died in Old Rappahannock County before 1700. Others claim that this Isaac Jackson married Jane Gullock, daughter of Robert Gullock. This would appear to be impossible. "Index to Marriages of Old Rappahannock and Essex Counties, Virginia", p. 118, Wilkerson, Gen. Pub. Co., 1976 lists the marriage of an Isaac Jackson to Jane Gullocke in 1697, then, in 1700 it lists the marriage of Jane Gullocke to John Butler.

The will of Robert Gullocke, dated in Rappahannock County 26 Feb 1683, names daughter Jane and "a child which my wife is now bigg with" as legatees when they reach the age of "one & twenty". It was this Jane Gullock that married Isaac Jackson in 1697, and the dates make it impossible for her to have been the mother of Sarah, the wife of Thomas Tinsley II.

ADDITION, as Pages 22a and 23a (Through oversight in printing, this family was left out of the original volume.)

THE RUCKER FAMILY OF THE TINSLEY LINE

Isaac Tinsley, son of Thomas Tinsley II, married Margaret Rucker, daughter of Peter Rucker, an immigrant who was naturalized by a proceeding in the Virginia House of Burgesses on 24 Apr 1704. There were nine other men, all with French names who are listed in the act, thus giving rise to the possibility that Peter Rucker was a Huguenot, but there is nothing to substantiate this. He was probably English.

He had two older sons, John Rucker and Thomas Rucker, probably sons of an earlier marriage, who preceded the arrival of himself, wife and children. These two elder sons, particularly John, gained a considerable prominence in Virginia.

Peter Rucker died in St. Mark's Parish in Orange Co., VA, and his will, recorded in Will Book 1, p. 299, is dated 18 Jan 1743. The will lists the following children:

1. Capt. John Rucker, m. Susannah Phillips, d. Orange Co., VA, 1742
2. Thomas Rucker, m. Elizabeth Tinsley, who was probably sister of Isaac Tinsley, Jr.
3. William Rucker, m. Honar or Hannah

4. James Rucker, m. Margaret - -
5. Ephraim Rucker, m. Margaret Vawter
6. Margaret Rucker, m. Isaac Tinsley - our ancestors
7. Ann Rucker, m. Shem Cook
8. Elizabeth Rucker, m. Pierce or Pearce
9. Mary Rucker, m. William Offall

The identity of Peter Rucker's wife, Elizabeth, has not been determined. Edythe Johns Rucker Whitley in her "History of the Rucker Family", claims that her surname was Fielding and that she came from England with her husband. Sudie Rucker Wood, in her "The Rucker Family Genealogy", Old Dominion Press, MCMXXXII, favors the surname Coghill, daughter of a neighbor, James Coghill.

SUBSTITUTION - Strike Page 23, all that follows the title line, "THE FOSTER FAMILY OF THE TINSLEY LINE", and substitute the following:

"The Foster family joined the Tinsley line with the marriage of one of our Revolutionary War ancestor, Ransom Tinsley, to Sarah Foster, daughter of Robert Foster, probably in Spartanburg County, SC, about 1785.

Gervena Foster Dennis, in her "FORSTER FOSTER and their Royal Descendants", privately published, has traced the Foster line back to John Forster of Buckton, forester to the Bishop of Durham, 1242, also, to Henry I, son of William the Conqueror. The line was armigerous with arms described as "Or on a chevron vert between three bugle horns sable stringed or on a cantor of gules."

The early data to follow is from her book while much of that to follow, down to the last two generations, is from a manuscript compiled by Capt. Ed Ditmer, USN, Olney, MD.

Richard Foster, b. ca 1619 in England, son of Sir Richard Foster and his wife Miss Isham Foster, immigrated to Virginia in 1635 on the ship "Safety". He married Sussan Garnett, daughter of Thomas Garnett and Elizabeth _____, and they had the following children:

1. William Foster, d. N. C.
2. Robert Foster, b. ca 1651, Essex Co., VA
3. Richard Foster b. ca 1655, d. Essex Co., VA, 1715
4. John Foster, b. ca 1660, d. Essex Co., VA, 1733

4. Richard Foster, b. ca 1731, Caroline Co., VA, d. 1819
5. Jane Foster, b. ca 1733, Amelia Co., VA, m. Anderson
6. Robert Foster, b. ca 1736, Amelia Co., VA, m. Elizabeth Holt?s
7. Anthony Foster, b. 1739, Spotsylvania Co., VA
8. Alexus Meador Foster, b ca 1772, Spotsylvania Co., VA m. Ann Glenn

Thomas Foster, son of Thomas Foster and Elizabeth Meador?, was born ca 1724 in Essex County, VA, where he married Lucy Clement?. His parents moved to Amelia County, taking all of their children. He became a rather prominent man in Amelia County, acquiring a substantial amount of land. Too old for military duty during the Revolutionary War, he did some hauling for the army and would be an eligible SAR ancestor. His will, written in Rawly Parish of Amelia County, was dated 11 March 1786, lists by name only this three oldest sons John, William and Thomas, and then, "all of my children". Wife, Jane, a legatee, was his second wife, and not the mother of his children.

The children of Thomas Foster and his wife, Lucy Clement?, were as follows:

1. Thomas Foster, b. ca. 1746 in Amelia Co., VA
2. John Foster, b. ca 1747, Amelia Co., VA
3. Moses Foster, b. ca 1749, Amelia Co., VA
4. Lydia Foster, b ca 1751, Amelia Co., VA
5. Robert Foster, b ca 1753, Amelia Co., VA, m. Sarah Elizabeth James - our ancestor
6. William Foster, b. ca 1755, Amelia Co., VA, m. Mary Ann James Jones
7. Isham Foster, b 1757, Amelia Co., VA
8. George Foster, b. ca 1759, Amelia Co., VA
9. Henry Foster, b. ca 1763, Amelia Co., VA

Robert Foster, son of Thomas Foster and his wife Lucy Clement?, was born in Amelia Co., VA, ca 1753. A migration of the Foster families from Essex County to Amelia County occurred in the early 1700s, then in the late 1700s they again moved, almost as a group, to Spartanburg District, South Carolina. Researchers of the line sometimes confuse our Robert Foster, son of Thomas in Amelia County, with Thomas' brother Robert in the adjoining county of Prince Edward.

Robert Foster married Sarah Elizabeth James, probably in Amelia County. He became a rather prominent man in South Carolina. He served in the South Carolina Militia during the Revolutionary War and is one of my SAR patriot ancestors.

Robert Foster died, intestate, in Spartanburg District some time before 30 Jan 1819, on which date an "Obligation of Agreement" was signed by his heirs agreeing to abide by the settlement of his estate to be made by his son Ransom Foster. Signatories were:

John Foster	(Blurred) Walker
Ransom Tinsley	Moses Foster
William Foster	Sarah Foster
James Foster	Elizabeth Foster
Berryman Foster	Jesse Foster
Willis Selman	Wiley Selman
	Eliza Foster Widow

Note that the agreement was signed by both Ransom Tinsley and his wife Sarah Foster.

ADDITION - Add, as Line 24a:

THE JAMES FAMILY OF THE TINSLEY LINE

Thomas James, the earliest member of this family of our line who can be proved, died in Amelia County, VA, leaving a will dated 7 Dec 1780, which is recorded in Amelia County Will Book 3, p. 48. Legatees are (1) the unnamed heirs of his son, Thomas James, (2) his daughter, "Elizabeth Foster, wife of Robt. Foster", (3) his wife Martha, and (4) his son John James, who is named as executor. Witnesses to the will were J. Jinkins, Thos. Foster, Jr., and "Tho. Foster son of John", all of whom appear to have been neighbors on Stock Creek in Raleigh Parish.

Martha, wife of Thomas James, has not been identified other than as the widow of John Butler, whose will, dated 4 Jan 1759 was proved in Amelia County 23 Aug 1759. This will leaves "my Land and Plantation" and practically all of his extate to "my Loving Wife Martha Butler". Small gifts were designated for his sister, Sarah Drinkwater, and several nephews.

Martha may have been a second wife of Thomas James; neither this nor the date of their marriage has been determined, nor can it be determined if she was our ancestor and mother of his children. Thomas James' son, John, provides somewhat of a clue. He was doubtlessly of legal age on 7 Dec 1780 when his father named him executor of his will. This would place his birth date as not later than 7 Dec 1759. The first husband of Martha, John Butler, made his will 4 Jan 1759 and it was proved 23 Aug 1759, but the date of his death is not known.

Assuming that Martha was still a widow on the date her husband's will was proved, she could not have been the mother of Thomas Foster's son, John. We do not know if our ancestor Elizabeth James Foster, was older or younger than her brother, John, so we really do not know if Martha Butler was our ancestor.

Thomas James could have been the brother of William James, whose will, dated 19 Dec 1771, and recorded in Amelia Co. WB 2, p. 17, names legatees, wife, Rosannah, sons Cary, William, John, George, Joseph, Thomas and Jesse; daughters, Elizabeth, Rosannah, Martha and Frances. These two possible brothers could have been of the family of George and Elizabeth James whose children are recorded in the Charles Parish Register in York County, VA, and who are listed as follows: William, George, Ann, John, Mary and Thomas. The similarity in the given names within these three James families is remarkable, and the dates, not here given, are not incompatible.

Elizabeth James, daughter of Thomas James and possibly Mrs. Martha Butler, married Robert Foster and is presumed to have died in Spartanburg District, S. C. Her children are listed under his name.

CHAPTER 1

TINSLEY BEGINNINGS IN VIRGINIA AND SOUTH CAROLINA

A. English Backgrounds

It has been said that the name "Tinsley" is, without doubt, of English origin; however, no one seems to be sure just what it means, or how it originated. One version traces the name back to Roger Margolles, Lord Tinsloo, of Yorkshire, and argues that the present name of Tinsley is a modification of the name Tinsloo. In other places, it is said that the name Tinsley means a person from Tynne's mound or hill. The argument is that the name "Law" or "Low" signified a hill or mound, and that the "-ley" portion of the present name is a carry over of the old "Law" or "Low". The name is also sometimes seen as Tirneslawe or Tineslawe.

W. E. Tinsley mentions in his book (see Notes on Sources at the end of the Chapter) that a short distance northeast of the City of Sheffield, in Yorkshire, England, there is found the Village of Tinsley, where lives (or did live) a vicar of the local Anglican Church, whose name is (or was) Tinsley. He further states that the name is obviously an old one in the Yorkshire area and that the progenitor of the Tinsleys in America came from this place. Rev. Joseph Hunter, in his work originally published in 1831, stated that in the Parish of Rotherham, northeast of Sheffield, there were eight townships, including the Township of Tinsley. He then briefly discussed these townships, mentioning especially the Township of Tinsley and the ancient Chapel there. He also mentioned the Coat of Arms.

In his book, Jim Bob Tinsley has a reproduction of the Crest (including the Coat of Arms) and some discussion. He notes that the ancient Coat of Arms contained a chevron between three wolves' heads erased. In the reproduction of the Crest, he shows a stork and the motto "Sine Labe Fides", which means "Faith Without Dishonor". There were two colors, gules (or red) and argent (or silver). He says that red signified courage and that silver denoted sincerity, purity, innocence and peace. Other authorities, however, do not attach such significance to the colors, holding that the differences in colors were to distinguish similar Coats or Crests. According to Jim Bob Tinsley, the chevron signified protection and the stork symbolized piety and gratitude. The stork was held in great veneration by some of the early kings, and, in many cases, the storks were not to be disturbed, under penalty of law. Frequently, storks would build their nest on the tops of castles or other high buildings, where they were welcomed and sheltered. The idea was that the Tinsleys (or Lords of Tinsley) lived in castles, over which flew the sacred stork.

It is well known that among the families of old England there was a custom to name the first born son for the father, and it was this first born son who, under the law of primogeniture, inherited the father's estate, or the greater portion of it. The wealthier families of colonial Virginia followed this practice until, under the administration of President Jefferson (who opposed the practice) the custom was discouraged. This custom makes family research difficult in many cases. Most researchers adopt the practice of designating the father as I, the son as II, the grandson (or other bearer of that name) as III, and so on. It is understood, of course, that this designation does not form a part of the original name, but is merely a device to promote clarity.

B. Thomas Tinsley And The Jamestown Colony

The progenitor of the Tinsley family in America was named Thomas Tinsley. He is usually referred to as Thomas Tinsley I; however, he is occasionally referred to as Thomas Tinsley the Emigrant. He was born around 1618 in or near Tinsley, in Yorkshire, England. Nothing has been learned of his early schooling, his family or his church connections. He arrived at the Jamestown colony in 1638, his transportation having been furnished by John Robbins, of James City County. For such, John Robbins received the usual grant of fifty acres of land.

Jamestown, the first permanent English colony on the American continent, was established in May, 1607, when three small ships tied up to trees on the shoreline of an island near the mouth of the James River. They unloaded over 150 men as the first undertaking of a privately financed commercial venture. Their backers were the shareholders of The London Company, chartered by King James I (who is well-known in connection with a translation of the Bible). Some of the shareholders were among those first arriving; they came as officers and managers while others came to seek their fortunes. There were no women in the group. For several years, the colony was governed by martial law, under the hand of Capt. John Smith, said by some to have been an officious blow-hard also seeking his fame and fortune.

The second contingent of men and supplies arrived in several ships in 1608. Another shipment came later that year. It is likely that the average person today has only a slight recollection of Jamestown, which probably goes back to his days as a pupil in grammar school, and which involves the romantic tale of the Indian princess, Pocohontas, throwing herself across the body of Capt. Smith, to prevent the braves of her father, Powhatan, from executing him. Some have doubted the historical accuracy of this tale, arguing that Smith was a notorious liar, particularly when his own deeds were involved; nevertheless, this incident does help us remember Jamestown. But Jamestown was much more than this -had this commercial venture failed

(after the pattern of Sir Walter Raleigh on Roanoke Island, for example), the history of America would doubtless have been different; probably Spain or France would have been the colonizer of the eastern seaboard.

It is, nevertheless, nothing short of miraculous that the colony did survive, given the poor selection of location, bureaucratic bungling, mismanagement, improper equipment, lack of supply, disease, starvation and Indian massacres. Within two years, the colony had grown to 500 persons, but within one year following it had dwindled to only 56 men. Sick, discouraged and facing starvation, the survivors loaded a few belongings onto a ship and were on their way out to sea, planning to abandon the colony, when they were met by another ship carrying more men and supplies, commanded by Sir Thomas West. He is said to have been a pompous individual who strutted about the establishment, surrounded by a group of armed soldiers guarding his person, but he did bring management and stability to the foundering colony, which, in spite of many difficulties, managed to survive, and, eventually, to prosper.

Thomas Tinsley I was not a member of The London Company, nor of any prominent family. He held no public office although he became a rather prominent man in the colony. The chances are that he was an indentured servant of Robbins, for whom he would have been bound to work for a specified number of years in payment of his transportation; this was a common practice. His name appears in various minutes of county records as a member of a committee to lay out roads, to consider the removal of debris from a stream, etc. After he began to acquire land, he became a large tobacco grower. At some date now unknown, he married Elizabeth Randolph. While it appears that there was only one family in the Jamestown Colony at that time by the name of Randolph, no definite connection has yet been made between this particular Elizabeth and that family, although the connection seems likely.

It seems that, prior to the time he owned any land, Thomas I lived on a creek then known as Moses Run because, in 1650, he is mentioned in a deed for adjoining property on that stream. Like most Englishmen coming to the new land, he was probably land hungry and, in that same year of 1650, there is a grant of 300 acres to him for having paid the passage of six persons from England. He became a large tobacco planter, shipping his crop to England, from which he probably imported clothing and domestic items. It is likely that he became a man of some wealth and influence in the community. Moses Run later became known as Totopotomoy Creek.

Totopotomoy Creek was named for the Indian Totopotomoy who was a chief of the Pamunkey Indians and a successor to Powhatan. Today, on the eastern side of Virginia Highway 606 just north of its crossing of the Creek (in front of the home known as Rural Plains, where Patrtick Henry was married), there is a triple marker; the top portion reads "1656 -Totopotomoi - Chief Of The Pamunkey Indians, Faithful Ally Of The English, Killed In Battle Of Bloody Run, Near Richmond". The middle portion reads "1754 - Rural Plains -Built 1670

-Home Of Sarah Shelton, Married Here To Patrick Henry". The bottom portion has the following language: "1864- Battle Of The Totopotomoi - Preceding Cold Harbor". Totopotomoy Creek is a tributary of the Pamunkey River and encloses a peninsula in the present Hanover County (formerly James City County). On that Creek, about 12 miles north of the present site of Richmond, Thomas Tinsley I built his plantation home, which he named "Totomoi". The house was destroyed by fire and then rebuilt around two huge chimneys. There are photographs of the old home, which is still standing, in Jim Bob Tinsley's book, and the property is still owned by descendants. (See the Note at the end of the Chapter on "Totomoi".)

One of the opening guns in the long struggle for American independence was an affair known as Bacon's Rebellion, occurring in 1676. After this little brush, three royal commissioners were sent by the British government to investigate the disturbance. There was presented to these commissioners a document dated April 2, 1677, which listed the grievances felt by the colonists. Blisland Parish, mother parish of St. Peter's in James City and New Kent counties, was a seat of discontent preceding the rebellion, and so the document is called the Blisland Grievance. It listed a number of oppressions of the British government under Sir William Berkeley, such as high taxes, Indian murders and depredations, exactions of the sheriffs, selling of strong drink during court days, and duties levied on ships. Eighty-eight men signed this document and signature 17 is that of Thomas Tinsley I. As a matter of interest, it might be noted that the jurisdiction of the parish vestry was considerably broader in colonial Virginia that in today's Episcopal Church. Among other things, the colonial vestry was charged with the care of the indigent and it fixed the rate of taxation within the parish. Thomas Tinsley I was a member of the vestry in Blisland Parish, and, as already mentioned, was a signer of the Blisland Grievance.

Thomas Tinsley I and Elizabeth Randolph had the following children:

(1) Thomas Tinsley II, born about 1638. He is in the direct line and some additional material concerning him will be set forth later.

(2) John Tinsley, born about 1639.

(3) Cornelius Tinsley, born about 1644.

(4) Alice Tinsley, born about 1646, married a Seward.

(5) Sicily Tinsley, born about 1648, married a Jennings.

(6) Mary Tinsley, born about 1650, married Robert Payne.

(7) Ann Tinsley, born about 1652, married a Tyler.

The Will of Thomas Tinsley I is dated October 9, 1700, and he must have died shortly thereafter, as it was recorded in 1702. This Will, on record in New Kent County, New Kent, Virginia, left to his eldest son Thomas Tinsley II a colt branded "TT"; this brand, used by him, was one of the first in the United States, 100 years before burned brands came into general use in Virginia. A full copy of the Will may be found in Jim Bob Tinsley's book. It seems likely that Thomas Tinsley I died about 1702, in New Kent County, Virginia.

C. Thomas Tinsley II

Thomas Tinsley II, born about 1638, inherited his father's estate, and, in addition, acquired other properties on his own. In 1689, he acquired 111 acres in Rappahannock County, and, in a subsequent year, was personally responsible for bringing forty-eight English immigrants to the Jamestown colony, for which he received 2,400 acres of land. In 1704 he acquired an additional tract of 1,000 acres in Essex County. His brothers Cornelius and John also owned land in New Kent County in 1704.

Records show that, between 1704 and 1706, he dealt extensively in tobacco and land. On a date now unknown, he married Sarah Jackson, daughter of Isaac Jackson (who died sometime before 1700); Sarah had at least two brothers, Thomas and Andrew.

Thomas Tinsley II and Sarah Jackson had the following children:

(1) Thomas Tinsley III. The date of his birth is unknown, but he died in 1764, in Essex County, Virginia. Jim Bob Tinsley is one of his direct descendants, seven generations down, and his book gives much additional information on this particular branch. James Tinsley, a grandson of Thomas Tinsley III, moved to the Abbeville area of South Carolina and prospered there. By his first wife Sarah Vernon, he had 12 children; by his second, Elizabeth Bracken, 10. He has many descendants, but, as he is not in the direct line, his descendants will not be traced; instead, the interested reader is referred to Jim Bob Tinsley's book.

(2) Philip Tinsley. Again, the date of birth is unknown, but he died in 1774 in Caroline County, Virginia. Only the first name of his wife is known, that of Johanna, and the date of his marriage to her is not known. Jim Bob Tinsley's book relates an incident in which he was indicted for permitting "unauthorized divine services" in his home. He is also not in the direct line.

(3) David Tinsley. Again, only the first name of his wife is known, that of Catharine. He is not in the direct line.

(4) Edward Tinsley. The date of birth is unknown; he married a lady named "Margaret", but there is some little uncertainty about the spelling of the surname; some insist on spelling it as "Taylor" and others as "Taliaferro". There are also some who spell it "Talaiferro" but pronounce it as if it were spelled "Taylor". Margaret died in 1782, in Amherst County, Virginia.

(5) John Tinsley. The first name, only, of his wife is now known, that of Susannah. He died in Halifax County, Virginia.

(6) Isaac Tinsley. He will be identified as Isaac Tinsley I, as there are several other Tinsleys named Isaac. Since he is in the direct line, additional information will be set forth later.

(7) Mary Tinsley. Not in the direct line. Nothing further is known concerning her.

Thomas Tinsley II's Will was dated November 25, 1715. His wife Sarah was named as Executrix. He died in Essex County, Virginia, in 1716, and his Will was probated there shortly thereafter. His widow Sarah and her brother Thomas Jackson engaged in a number of land transactions more particularly described by Jim Bob Tinsley.

D. Isaac Tinsley I

Isaac Tinsley I, the son of Thomas Tinsley II and Sarah Jackson, was born sometime before 1706 in Essex County, Virginia. The situation is sometimes confusing because there are several men with the name Isaac, either as the only given name or in connection with another given name. Care must be taken to avoid confusion; nevertheless, there are some situations where the exercise of the greatest care will not insure clarity.

Isaac I, grandson of Thomas Tinsley I, was born sometime before 1706, in Essex County, Virginia. Sometime before 1742, he married Margaret Rucker, of Essex County, Virginia. As mentioned by W. E. Tinsley, the division of the large early counties in Virginia into smaller counties causes a substantial amount of difficulty in researching the public records. As a case in point, he cited the case of Isaac: without ever moving his residence, he lived in 5 different counties! Isaac described himself in his Will as being from Amelia County, Virginia, a "member of the Baptist Church of Christ on Sandy Creek, well advanced in age". His Will is recorded in Amelia County, in Will Book 2, Page 265.

Isaac Tinsley I and Margaret Rucker had the following children:

(1) Thomas Tinsley (identified herein as Thomas Tinsley IV), born in the 1720s. He is in the direct line, and additional information about him will be set forth later.

(2) There was a daughter who married Joshua Chafin; her name is believed to be Bettie, but this is not certain. Her husband Joshua became the guardian of Thomas Tinsley IV's minor children (except James) when he died in 1778. It is believed that Bettie died about 1779. She is not in the direct line.

(3) There was another daughter; she married William Ford, but there is no clue as to her name. Her husband William Ford became the guardian of Thomas Tinsley IV's minor child James.

(4) William Tinsley. There is no known date of birth. He married Susannah Morton on November 17, 1786, in Prince Edward County, and, apparently, thereafter moved to Kentucky, dying there in 1806. Following his death, his widow remarried a man named Minor.

(5) Charles Tinsley. Nothing further known.

(6) James Tinsley. No known date of birth. He married a girl whose first name was Nancy, last name unknown. He died about 1783, in Ninety-Six District, South Carolina.

(7) Isaac Tinsley II. Although this Isaac is not in the direct line, some additional material will be given later. He was the father of Golding Tinsley.

(8) Philip Tinsley. The date of birth is not known. He married a girl whose first name was Ann, and died about 1794 in Ninety-Six District, S. C.

(9) David Tinsley. Although the date of his birth is not known, it is known that he was a preacher and that he had difficulties with the law in Virginia. It is related by Jim Bob Tinsley that while a pastor at the Powhatan Church, Chesterfield County (now Powhatan County), he (David Tinsley) was, during the dead of winter, pulled from the pulpit and placed in the Chesterfield County jail for four months and sixteen days. In an effort to discourage him from preaching, his persecutors rubbed red peppers on the door and window of his cell and subjected him to the suffocating effects of burning tobacco. Undaunted, he continued to preach the gospel in Virginia until 1785, when he was "induced" to move to Georgia. He sailed from Yorktown to Savannah with his family, settled in Columbia County, near Augusta, and remained in the ministry until his death in 1801. His only son, Dr. James Tinsley, was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, and was a member of the Medical Society of South Carolina, authoring a book on experiments with yellow fever.

E. Isaac Tinsley II and Golding Tinsley

Reverting, for the time being, to No. 7 above, Isaac Tinsley II: the date of his birth is not known, nor is it known when he married Elizabeth Golding. There is, today, a Golding Family Association; interested readers are referred to Jimmie Ruth Nash and Dwight R. Owens, Golding Family Association, Route 5, Box 388, San Antonio, Texas 78221, for further information. Isaac and Elizabeth had the following children:

(1) Golding Tinsley, born 1754, in Culpepper County, Virginia. Additional information on Golding is given below.

(2) John Tinsley. Nothing else known.

(3) Rucker Tinsley. Nothing else known.

(4) Thomas Tinsley. Here is another Thomas Tinsley, but, as he will not be followed, he will receive no special designation.

(5) Isaac Tinsley III. As he shared some of Golding's activities in the Revolutionary War, some amount of additional information about him will be given below.

(6) William Tinsley. Nothing else known.

(7) Presting Tinsley. Nothing else known.

(8) David Tinsley. Nothing else known.

(9) James Tinsley. As he also shared some of Golding's activities in the Revolutionary War, some amount of additional information will be given below.

Golding (possibly with the remainder of the family) came to Newberry District, South Carolina, about 1771. Golding and three of his brothers (James, Isaac III and another brother not identified) enlisted in the Revolutionary forces. They were on the west end of Sullivan's Island on the day of the Battle of Fort Moultrie.

Two of the brothers (Isaac III and the one not identified) were killed by Tories near McBeth's Mill, on Fair Forest, Union District. Golding and his brother James participated in the Battle of Stono Ferry, which occurred on June 20, 1779. Here, British General Augustine Prevost, with a British force in Augusta, learning of American General Benjamin Lincoln's invasion of Georgia and of his advance on Augusta, decided to counter with an invasion of South Carolina. He crossed the Savannah at Purysburg, headed for Charleston. American General William Moultrie (who had been left by Lincoln to observe crossings over the lower Savannah) fell back slowly in front of the British in a series of delaying actions. By May 10, Prevost had driven Moultrie across the Ashley, had repulsed cavalry attacks by Pulaski's legion, and was in the outskirts of Charleston. There he was faced with a series of entrenchments built by citizens and slaves during Moultrie's withdrawal. Lincoln was notified and he began a return march to Charleston. Prevost, learning of Lincoln's return march, made arrangements to withdraw across the Ashley and to evacuate his troops to Savannah by small boats. Considerable skirmishing on the swampy islands southwest of the Ashley followed. On June 20, Moultrie attacked a British outpost in a fortified position at Stono Ferry, but was repulsed in a hard-fought engagement. This is the battle in which Golding and his brother James were involved. By the end of May, 1779, the British evacuation of Charleston was complete.

In December, 1779, British General Clinton, having been reinforced by troops from England, decided to renew the campaign in the South. He sailed from New York, taking Cornwallis and more than 8,500 of his best troops. Although a storm hit his fleet convoy and scattered some of the ships, by the end of January, 1780, most of the vessels had assembled at the mouth of the Savannah and, on February 11, Clinton began landing his troops on Johns Island, 30 miles south of Charleston. By March 29th, he had pushed his troops across the Ashley, north of Charleston. American General Lincoln was in command of American troops in Charleston. Both sides were getting reinforcements. British troops totalled about 10,000 with an additional 5,000 seamen in the fleet, just off the Charleston bar. Lincoln, reinforced by Washington, had about 5,500 men. Lincoln withdrew his troops into the City and the Siege of Charleston began. By April 20, however, a Council of War concluded that the only way to save the army was to abandon Charleston. The citizens, however, protested vigorously and Lincoln gave in. Sporatic fighting and negotiations ensued. By May 12, 1780, however, Lincoln had accepted the British surrender terms and the surrender was accomplished. About 4,500 men surrendered, together with a substantial amount of stores and a great quantity of weapons. This was the most serious defeat the Americans had yet suffered in the War.

Golding and James were in Charleston at the time, but they were able to escape and scatter. They probably went into North Carolina and joined forces with Col. Williams. It is reported that they were with him when the British forces were defeated at the Battle of Musgrove Mill, on August 18, 1780. That battle took place in the northeastern part of Laurens County, on the Enoree River. They also participated in the Battle of Cedar Spring, in September, 1780, in Spartanburg District, when Ferguson's advance guard under Dunlap was routed.

During September, 1780, British General Ferguson, in the northwestern part of the state, stirred up a hornet's nest. Roused by threats to their homes, the mountaineer militiamen of North Carolina assembled for battle. Included were several hundred who journeyed east from regions beyond the mountains to help in the defense. By early October, 1780, more than 1,200 militiamen, mostly men from North Carolina, had assembled near Rocky Mount, northwest of Ferguson's post at Gilbert Town. Ferguson decided to get closer to Cornwallis' main army. The principal militia leaders were Shelby, McDowell, Sevier, Campbell, and Cleveland. Since they couldn't agree on a single commander, they asked Daniel Morgan (who was in the eastern part of the state) to come and to assume command. While Morgan was coming, they agreed that Campbell would carry out the orders that they collectively approved. About the only thing they could agree on was the close pursuit of Ferguson (who was trying to get nearer to Cornwallis' main army). When they arrived at the Cowpens on October 6, they were joined by Col. James Williams, the South Carolina partisan leader, and 400 men (presumably including Golding and James Tinsley). They feared that Ferguson would escape, so they got about 900 of their best mounted men to hasten after the retreating Tories. Late on the 6th of October, learning that the mounted force was close behind, Ferguson selected a defensive position on Kings Mountain. He sent a message to Cornwallis (in Charlotte), requesting reinforcements.

The next day, the 7th, a misty, drizzly day, the Americans reached the base of Kings Mountain shortly before noon. Williams' group was on the north side of the mountain, to the left of Shelby and to the right of Lacey. There was a fierce fight, with the Americans firing and advancing up the slope of the hill, hiding behind trees and rocks. Finally, Ferguson was shot from his horse and killed. Losing heart, the remaining Tories surrendered, but the Americans didn't cease firing at once. There was some amount of unjustified killing by the Americans, who remembered Tarleton's Waxhaws Massacre. Finally, however, there was a cessation of firing. Not one man of Ferguson's force escaped, except for the 200 men who had earlier been sent on a foraging mission. Regretfully, Col. Williams, leading the South Carolina partisans (including Golding and James Tinsley), was also among the dead. Following this battle, apparently, Golding and James became attached to Sumter's forces.

Cornwallis, at Charlotte, had received Ferguson's call for help and had sent Tarleton, but Tarleton, learning of the defeat at Kings Mountain, turned back. Cornwallis, shaken by the disaster at Kings Mountain, decided to return to Charleston. He was harassed on this march, and stopped at Winnsboro on the 29th of September. All of the American partisans stepped up their activities. Marion (the "Swamp Fox") increased his activities between the Pee Dee and the Santee. Sumter renewed his activities, and Cornwallis sent a small force after him. On November 9, Sumter ambushed these British troops at Fish Dam Ford and captured the commander and 25 of his men. Sumter then moved with 420 of his men toward the British fort at Ninety-Six. This advance forced Tarleton to abandon the chase of Marion and to dash to the relief of Ninety-Six. In the face of this threat, Sumter withdrew northward and took up a position at Blackstock's Plantation. Tarleton attacked him there on November 20, but suffered a disastrous repulse, losing 100 men. Golding and James participated in this battle. After this defeat, Tarleton rejoined Cornwallis at Winnsboro.

Following the engagement at Blackstock's Plantation, Golding and James, apparently, became attached to Morgan's command. On January 1, 1781, Tarleton, with more than one-third of Cornwallis' army, left Winnsboro and headed west across the Congaree toward Ninety-Six. His orders were to push Morgan to the utmost. On January 14, he was advancing northward over the Enoree and Tyger Rivers. Learning of this, Morgan planned to block the most likely crossing of the Pacolet, but Tarleton eluded him. Morgan withdrew north of Thicketty Creek, a tributary of the Broad River, camping on a sparsely wooded region within the great bend of the Broad, just south of the state line; this area was known locally as Hannah's Cowpens, or as the Cowpens (here the local inhabitants rounded up their cattle before sending them to market). Morgan learned, soon after dark on the 16th of January, that the British had bedded down for the night at his old camp on the Pacolet, about eight miles away. He prepared for battle. He attacked the next day, the 17th, and won a great victory - the British lost 110 men killed, 800 as prisoners, and 229 wounded. Americans also captured both of Tarleton's cannon, more than 800 muskets, 100 horses, Tarleton's entire baggage train (35 wagons) and a substantial supply of British ammunition. Tarleton, with 300 men, escaped. Morgan lost 12 killed and 61 wounded. This was a significant battle. The effect on patriot morale was very marked. It was the closest approach to tactical perfection ever seen on this continent, a double envelopment.

Following the engagement at Cowpens, Golding and James, apparently, became attached to Greene's command. With him, they retreated into Virginia. Then, turning back, they participated in the Battle of Guilford, on March 15, 1781. They were also at the Siege of Ninety-Six, under Greene, in May, 1781. After the unsuccessful frontal assault, the Americans retreated beyond Saluda. Proceeding to Yorktown, Golding and James were present at the surrender of Cornwallis, on October 19, 1791.

They then returned to South Carolina, and, for a number of years after the evacuation of Charleston, lived in Newberry District. Golding moved to Spartanburg District around 1800-1804. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Golding and his wife Mary had two children, Amelia Tinsley and Hiram Isaac Tinsley (herein called Isaac Tinsley IV). Golding's brother James migrated to Walker County, Texas, about 1837, when about age 78. Golding died near Cross Anchor, in Spartanburg District, on May 11, 1851, at age 96 or 97. He is supposed to be buried in a small plot containing three markers, one mile from the cross roads at Cross Anchor. Also supposed to be buried at the same location are his aunt and her husband, Sarah (Golding) Foster and Anthony Foster, who died in 1805. There is a memorial marker for Golding in the Bobo-Ducker Cemetery in Union County, S. C.

Isaac Tinsley II (father of Golding and James) died in 1782, and his wife Elizabeth Golding Tinsley died in 1802.

Golding's daughter Amelia married a Parham. Golding's son Hiram Isaac Tinsley (Isaac IV) married Mary Red and had the following children:

(1) Thomas Tinsley (not to be confused with all the other Thomas Tinsleys!), born September 23, 1828, died June 4, 1848, buried at New Hope.

(2) David Golding Tinsley, born November 19, 1824, died on June 19, 1848, buried at New Hope.

(3) William, nothing further known.

(4) Elizabeth, nothing further known.

(5) Mary, nothing further known.

(6) Sarah, also known as "Sallie". She married John James Eison, of Union, S. C. Her full name was Sarah Hall Tinsley. Her great-granddaughter is Ms. Verle Jenkins, of 113 Rickert Avenue, Landrum, S. C. 29356-1825.

(7) Rickert, nothing further known.

(8) Robert, nothing further known.

(9) James, nothing further known.

(10) John, nothing further known.

(11) Frances, nothing further known.

(12) Hiram, nothing further known.

(13) Lucinda, nothing further known.

(14) Caroline, nothing further known.

(15) Isaac Preston, nothing further known.

Mary Red Tinsley, wife of Hiram Isaac Tinsley (Isaac IV) was born March 12, 1804. She died March 27, 1851, and was buried at New Hope.

F. Thomas Tinsley IV

Reverting now to Thomas Tinsley IV, mentioned above (son of Isaac Tinsley I and Margaret Rucker): he was, as already mentioned, born in the 1720s, and is in the direct line. He was the oldest son. There are a number of land transactions concerning him, though little more is known. He was a dissenter against the Anglican Church and was one of the donors of a meetinghouse in Prince Edward County in 1775.

He was married, but some think that he was married more than once. The first name of the known wife was Mary, but the last name is not known. It is doubted by some that she was the mother of the children. Mary was named as Administratrix of his Estate, but she was not named Guardian of the minor children; it is for this reason that some think that she was not the natural mother of at least some of the children. Thomas IV died in Prince Edward County in 1778.

The following are the children of Thomas Tinsley IV:

(1) Talitha Tinsley, born February 17, 1757, married John Morton (died 1847). They moved to Clark County, Kentucky, after the War, and, later, her brother Ransom I and his wife Sarah Foster followed.

(2) Thomas Tinsley V. He is in the direct line and more will be mentioned about him later.

(3) Ransom Tinsley I. Although he is not in the direct line, additional material about him will be given later.

(4) Isaac Tinsley V. Although he is not in the direct line, some additional material will be given later. It is believed that he married Polly Morton, believed to have been a sister to the John Morton mentioned above.

(5) William Tinsley, born 1764. He was married, but the name of his wife is not known for sure. It is believed that they moved to Clark County, Kentucky, and that he died there in 1896. It is reported that his widow remarried a Hattin.

(6) Angelica (Silicia) Tinsley, born about 1766, nothing further known.

(7) Jane (Jeany? Jenny?), nothing further known.

(8) David Tinsley, born about 1770, moved to Clark County, Kentucky, dying there about 1798.

(9) Maiden (Maider) Tinsley, married David Tanner. Maiden's brother Thomas V acquired 300 acres, near Fair Forest Creek, Spartanburg District, from David in 1821, the deed being recorded in Book R, Page 289.

(10) James Tinsley (not to be confused with other James Tinsleys!), born about 1777, married a lady whose first name was Elizabeth, and died in Bedford County, Virginia.

The above named John Morton and Polly Morton (Mary Ann) are believed to have been the children of a previous John Morton.

It is believed that at least three of these children (Thomas V, Ransom I, and Isaac V), and possibly a fourth (Maiden), all moved to Spartanburg District sometime following the Revolutionary War. It seems likely that they did not come as a group; perhaps some came together and others moved separately. These three brothers were, it is believed, among the first Tinsleys in the Spartanburg area, and they will be more fully treated the in the following chapters.

A Note Concerning Totomoi

Totomoi, the plantation built by Thomas Tinsley I north of Richmond, was named for the Indian Chief Totopotomoy; he was a friend of the English colonists, and was killed in the Battle of Bloody Run, near Richmond, in 1656.

It appears that three residences have been built on the site. Nothing is reported of the first, and the second, not described by any known source, was destroyed by fire sometime before 1795. The present house was built around 1795; it is a two-story, three-bay frame building with an original gable-end lean-to. The brick exterior chimney, with double stacks, stands against the lean-to. Three porches with scrolled eaves shelter doors into the cross hall of the main part of the house.

At the death of Thomas Tinsley I, around 1702, the property passed to his son, Thomas Tinsley II, who, in turn, passed it on to his son, Thomas Tinsley III. Thomas Tinsley III passed the property on to his son, another Thomas Tinsley. His son, identified as Col. Thomas Tinsley (1755-1822), married Susanna Thomson (1765-1844), the daughter of John Thomson and Ann Garland.

One son of Col. Thomas Tinsley and Susanna Thomson was Thomas Garland Tinsley (1788-1859). He first married Harriet W. Bryan, on November 27, 1820, and added a wing to the house. (As a matter of interest, it might be noted that one child of this marriage was Seaton Garland Tinsley; he married Frances Gaines. She, it is believed, was the daughter of William F. Gaines, the owner of Gaines's Mill, and whose plantation, Powhite, was in the thick of things in the Battle of Gaines's Mill. She became the owner of Powhite after the death of William F. Gaines in May, 1874, and published a diary in which she told of the hardships of the neighbors during the War. The Union soldiers occupied the yard and surrounding countryside, and the Gaines family members were prisoners in their own house.) Thomas Garland Tinsley later married Martha (Patsey) Rutherfoord (1803-1873), daughter of Col. Thomas Rutherfoord and Sarah Winston. Thomas Garland Tinsley and his wife Patsey were listed in the 1850 Census report as being, respectively, ages 61 and 46.

One child of Thomas Garland Tinsley, by his second wife Patsey, was James Garland Tinsley (1843-1920). He married Martha (Pattie) Winton Jones (1843-1911), the daughter of Laney Jones, Jr. and Martha Ann Watt. Apparently, he was the owner during the War Between The States. It is reported that during the War, Gen. J. E. B. Stuart passed through the vicinity with 1200 cavalry in June, 1862, as a part of his famous "Ride Around McClellan", and that, in 1864, General Grant, in attempting to take Richmond just prior to the Battle of Second Cold Harbor, met resistance at Totopotomoy Creek. Markers along the highway, on both sides of the Creek, give additional information about this skirmish, which occurred on May 29-30, 1864.

James Garland Tinsley and Pattie Jones had eight children, among them a girl named Claire. She was the next owner.

Claire Tinsley (1873-1947) married Seddon Jones (1877-1960). Apparently, she acquired the property by virtue of a deed from the Executors of her father's estate, about 1938. Claire Tinsley Jones' Will, probated after her death in 1947, gave the property to her nephew, Thomas Rutherfoord Moncure (the son of Claire's sister, Margaret Tinsley, who had married Judge William A. Moncure); subject, however, to the right of A. Seddon Jones, Jr., to use and occupy the property as his residence. Later, in 1948, A. Seddon Jones, Jr. gave up these rights, thus perfecting the title of T. R. Moncure.

Recently, by a deed in December, 1985, T. R. Moncure and his wife Julia C. Moncure conveyed the property to certain Trustees, pursuant to a certain land trust agreement, probably retaining the beneficial ownership though not the legal title. That, apparently, is the situation today; the beneficial owner is T. R. Moncure, an eighth-generation descendant of Thomas Tinsley I.

Mr. T. R. Moncure is now retired, but was formerly in the banking business. He resides at 5406 Cary Street Road, Richmond, phone (804) 282-6712. He has a brother named Tinsley Moncure, residing at 27 W. Locke Lane, Richmond, phone (804) 355-1982, and another brother named Conway Moncure. His daughter, Miss Janet Moncure, actually lives on the property, which has the mailing address of 5759 Rural Point Road, Richmond, phone (804) 643-1991. Copies of certain photographs of the home, though of poor quality, may be found at the end of this Note.

Should one be interested in visiting the property, one of two approaches may be used. If one is in Richmond, Highway 301 should be chosen; this is one of several highways to the Town of Hanover. Proceeding northerly along U. S. Highway 301, which is also known as Highway 2 (see Map #1), one crosses first the Chickahominy River, then passes over Interstate 295. Continuing northerly along Highway 301, one would cross Totopotomoy Creek, then arrive at the intersection with Virginia Highway 643; this Highway is also called Rural Point Road, and the intersection shows on Map #1 as "Pearson's Corner". Turning easterly (right) here, one would proceed along Virginia Highway 643 (refer now to Map #2) for approximately .4 (four-tenths) mile, arriving at the point marked "A" on Map #2. At that point, one would find, on the south (right-hand) side of the road, several mailboxes, one of which has the marking "Totomoi"; beside those boxes, one would find a field road, leading off to the south (right), through some pines; this is the road to the home.

Following the field road through the pines (refer now to Map #3), one would shortly emerge into an open field, and, continuing to follow the road for approximately .8 (eight-tenths) mile, one would arrive at the entrance to the home, which is marked on Map #3 as "Dwelling".

If one is north of Richmond, for example, in Hanover, one should proceed southerly along U. S. Highway 301 for about 6.55 miles (measuring from the old Hanover Court House), before arriving at "Pearson's Corner"; at that point, the above directions would then apply.

If one is east of Richmond, on Interstate 295, for example, one could proceed northwesterly on Interstate 295 until the intersection with U. S. 301 is reached; at that point, one should exit the Interstate and proceed northerly on U. S. 301, following the above directions.

Notes on Sources For Chapter 1

No effort was made to make full footnotes for each and every statement; such an undertaking would be unduly burdensome. However, the following sources were used in the preparation of this material:

Tinsley, Jim Bob: "From Totopotomoy To Transylvania", printed in Ocala, Florida, by Des Abbott & Gordon Mobbs, 1976. This was an important source concerning the locations in England, the arrival of Thomas Tinsley I in the Jamestown colony, and the first few generations following him.

Tinsley, William Eldon: "Tinsley, et al", a private publication. This, along with the above, was a principal source for the early Tinsleys in America, and the early Tinsleys in Spartanburg District.

Hunter, Rev. Joseph: "South Yorkshire", Vol. 2, printed originally in 1831, republished in 1974 by EP Publishing, in collaboration with Sheffield City Libraries.

Chapman, John A: "The Annals of Newberry", published in 1892 by Aull & Houseal. Contains much of the history of Newberry County, including information concerning Golding Tinsley and his brothers, and their experiences in the Revolutionary War.

Tinsley, Miss Rachel: She is a descendant of Sirpaton Tinsley and has a wealth of notes, copies of documents and correspondence concerning many branches of the Tinsley family. She very kindly made this material available.

Jenkins, Ms. Verle: She is a descendant of Golding Tinsley and made information pertaining to him and his branch available.

Hanover County Historical Society: "Old Homes of Hanover County, Virginia", Hanover, Virginia, 1983, pp. 43, 55, 56, and 57. Published by Walsworth Publishing Company, Don Mills, Inc., Salem, WV.

The Carolina Herald, the official publication of the South Carolina Genealogical Society, has a small item on the Golding family, including Golding Tinsley, in the Winter, 1991 issue, Volume XIX, page 12.

A BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF JAMES TINSLEY

James Tinsley was born ca 1759 in Culpepper Co., Virginia.[1] The family of James Tinsley came to Newberry District, South Carolina in 1717.[2] The name of his father is not known to me, but indications are that it is Isaac Tinsley, Jr. who married Elizabeth Golding, daughter of William Golding. William Golding also moved his family to the Newberry area.

I know of two brothers of James. These are Golding and Isaac Tinsley. The Annals of Newberry by John Belton O'Neall states that Golding, along with his three brothers enlisted, it is believed, July, 1775, in Capt. John Caldwell's company of rangers. Belton also states in his memoir of Golding Tinsley, that two of Golding's brothers were killed by the Tories on Fair Forest, near McBeth's Mills, Union District.[3] Isaac is known to be one of them. I do not know the name of the other brother.

James Tinsley survived the terrible days of the Revolution as was present at many of the battles waged in South Carolina. Some of these are the siege of Savannah, Stono, Hayes Station, Blackstock's Plantation, Cowpens, King's Mountain and Guilford Courthouse.[4] He had reached the rank of captain by the end of the war.[5]

After the war, James married Elizabeth Williams, daughter of Col. James Williams, hero of the battle of King's Mountain.[6] James and Elizabeth lived in Newberry District. I am sure of only one child by this marriage, this being James W. Tinsley.[7] The 1790 census of Newberry District show two males under 16, so there is the possibility of another son.

Elizabeth Williams Tinsley died around 1807 and is buried in the Williams-Nance Cemetary in Newberry Co., South Carolina.[8]

James next married Susan Hooker, ca 1811.[9] They continued to live in Newberry District until ca 1827, when they moved to Spartanburg District.[10] Children by this marriage are: Elizabeth Ann, Louisa Virginia, Clementine Amanda, Melissa Caroline and Laura Adaline.[11] All of the daughters, except Laura Adaline, were born in South Carolina. Laura Adaline was born in Texas.[12]

It appears that Elizabeth Ann Tinsley Bobo is a child of the second marriage, even though she is seventeen years older than the oldest of the other four known daughters. Her age on census records indicates a birth year of ca 1813. 1810 census records show James Tinsley a widower with no children in his household. If the death date of Elizabeth Williams Tinsley, 1807, is correct, then Elizabeth Ann is a child of the second marriage. James and Susan Tinsley may have had other children who died at an early age. 1820 census reports show at least two more daughters both under the age of ten. No other record of them has been found.

By 1837 the oldest daughter, Elizabeth Ann, was married to Foster Bobo, son of Levingston and Elizabeth Bobo of Spartanburg Co. At this time they decided to make the long trip west to Texas, where land was plentiful and free. At the advanced age of 78 James Tinsley moved his family along with them, not wanting to be deprived of the society of his children in his old age.[13]

The Tinsleys and the Bobos settled in what was then Montgomery County, but is now Walker County, Texas very near the city of Huntsville, having arrived there 10 May 1837.[14] James applied for a land grant and was given a conditional certificate 2 Aug. 1838 and an unconditional certificate for 1280 22 Sep. 1841.[15] His land was in two parcels, one just northeast of Huntsville and the other, where he and his family lived, just to the southeast of Huntsville. He lived very near General Sam Houston. To this day, this land is referred to in title searches and plats as the Tinsley Survey.

Susan Tinsley is named in the record book of the Mount Pleasant Baptist Church as a charter member ofthat church. Mount Pleasant, the first Baptist Church in Montgomery County, was organized in 1838.[16]

In the Montgomery County, Texas courthouse there is a deed, recorded in 1841, that actually reads like a will. In it James Tinsley deeds all of his worldly possessions to his devoted wife, Susan. He acknowledges that he is much older than she and that even though he is enjoying his usual good health he is aware of the uncertainty of life. This deed is a moving testimony of the great affection James Tinsley had for his wife and children.[17]

Now in the 82nd year of his life, this old soldier lived only three more years. He died in 1844. His estate file can be found in the courthouse in Huntsville, Texas.

Before the final settlement of James Tinsley's estate his devoted wife Susan followed him in death. The final partition of her estate names only five children as heirs: Elizabeth Ann Bobo, Louisa Wade, Clementine Collins and Melissa and Laura who were still minors.[18]

Thus was the life of James Tinsley, as I know it.

King's Mountain and it's Heros by Lyman C. Draper
pp. 110-111 - Battle with British and Tories at Musgrove's Ford, S.C.

"Many of the British and Tories were shot down as they were hastening pell-mell across the Enoree River at the rocky ford. After they were fairly over, one, not yet too weary to evince his bravado, and attract attention for the moment, turned up his buttock in derision at the Americans; when one of the Whig officers, probably Brandon or Steen, said to Golding Tinsley: "Can't you turn that insolent braggart over?" "I can try" responded Tinsley, who was known to possess a good rifle, when suiting the action to the word, he took prompt aim and fired and sure enough, turned him over, when some of his comrades picked the fellow up and carried him off."

*Footnote on p. 110 says that Golding Tinsley settled in S.C. around 1771.

He early served in the rangers. He had two brothers killed by Tories in the Fair Forest region during the war.

Spanish Patriots

During the years of the American Revolution, Spain supported the American Colonies in their war for independence against England.

Bernardo de Galvez, Governor of Louisiana (1777-1783), provided cattle to the American Colonies from Spanish lands in America. These cattle herds were driven to Louisiana from ranchos near San Antonio de Bexar. Land owners, vaqueros, and Spanish soldiers participated, thus supporting the cause of the American Revolution.

Anglo Colonists

By 1810, Americans were coming into to Texas, drawn by the lure of adventure, land, and economic opportunity. Many of them, when younger men, had been patriots of the American Revolution, either serving as soldiers or as civilian patriots.

In 1820, Moses Austin received permission from the Spanish government in Mexico City to colonize eastern and southeastern Texas. Upon the elder Austin's death, his son, Stephen F. Austin, took on the task. The colonists he brought in became known as "The Old 300." They settled mostly in eastern and southeastern Texas.

The TSDAR Patriot Monument was carefully designed . . .

- Obelisk shape favored in the 19th c., again honoring the Washington Monument.
- Inscriptions honoring the men and their patriotism.
- Bronze wreath with soldier honoring the soldiers who served.
- A longhorn cattle herd honoring the Spanish contribution.
- Laos Deo, after the inscription on the Washington Monument in Washington, D.C.

The stories of the men named on the monument are as varied as the story of Texas.

John Abston served in Virginia, after the war emigrating first to Kentucky, then to Missouri. He came to Texas with son Jesse and family in 1853, settling in Collin County, and lived to the age of 92.

Bailey Anderson served in the South Carolina militia and as a spy during the American Revolution. In 1800, he served in the Kentucky State Legislature. He arrived in Texas in 1819 at the age of 61. In August 1832, he commanded a company at the Battle of Nacogdoches, and in 1835, he fought at the Siege of Bexar.

Benjamin Anderson gave civil service in South Carolina. A farmer, he died in 1853 in Nagoddoches. He is buried in the Black Jack Cemetery.

Benjamin Clark came to Texas in 1819 at the age of 61, settling in Red River Co. He became a Methodist minister, riding the circuit. According to Brakebills's book (see list of resources), Clark's Bible bears the signatures of Sam Houston and Mirabeau B. Lamar.

James P. Collins was a volunteer in Moffett's Minute Men of South Carolina serving as rifleman and courier. After the War he enlisted in the militia fighting the Creek and the Cherokee. He came to Texas in 1836 to visit his son-in-law and died at the age of 81.

Jose Antonio Curbelo was born in 1746 of Canary Island parents who had emigrated to Texas, and when Lieutenant Governor of the Province of Texas, Curbelo delivered 1,069 cattle to Bernardo de Galvez.

Joseph de la Baume, from France, served in the French Army in the American Revolution. In Louisiana he and two others built Fort Miro. By 1802 he had moved to Nacogdoches where he called himself a physician and herb doctor. Stephen F. Austin was his lawyer when he was imprisoned at the age of 82 in Bexar and his lands in the DeWitt Colony confiscated.

William Eakin was born in South Carolina and served in Col. Hathorn's Regiment of Volunteers Mounted Gunmen. The pension application of his wife, Elizabeth Eakin, attests that William died on 11 July 1840 in San Augustine County.

Vicente Flores was born in 1757 in the Villa de San Fernando de Bexar, and by the 1770s he owned two of the ranchos in the San Antonio River valley, from which he provided cattle to Bernardo de Galvez.

William Gates was a North Carolina soldier. He came to Texas in 1821 after a stint in Kentucky and received a land grant of two sitios in 1824, settling near Washington on the Brazos. He is listed as one of Austin's "Old 300."

Henry Bailey Greenwood was a Quaker and thus did not serve as a soldier; however, his service as a juror in Virginia qualifies him for "patriotic" service. At the age of 74, he came to Texas with the Landrum, Shannon and Montgomery families.

Alexander Hodge arrived in Austin's Colony in 1826. His plantation, Hodge's Bend, was a favorite stopover for William B. Travis, Deaf Smith, and other famous Texans. At the age of 76, Hodge led the women and children in the Runaway Scrape.

Thomas Charles Holmes was an express rider in North Carolina and served with Francis Marion, "The Swamp Fox." He came to Texas as a very old man, at the age of 96.

Zachariah Landrum was an attorney who received bounty lands in Georgia for his service in South Carolina. He came to Texas with a group of families and received a Spanish Land Grant, and settled in Montgomery County.

Abel Allison Lewis served in the North Carolina militia. A farmer, he came to Texas in 1824 at the age of 63, where he received one league and one labor of land, settling in Panola County.

John Parker and his family established Fort Parker in Limestone Co. In the Spring of 1836, the massacre at Fort Parker took place. Cynthia Ann Parker, Elder John's granddaughter, was kidnapped by the Indians. She would become the mother of the remarkable Indian leader, Quanah Parker.

Charles Polk served in Mecklenburg County, North Carolina and came to Texas about 1836 at the age of 79 years old, settling in San Augustine County.

Robert Rankin joined the Virginia troops of the Continental Army, participating in the battles of Brandywine, Germantown in Pennsylvania, and the battle of Stony Point in New York. An original member of the Virginia Society of the Cincinnati, in 1835, he received a land grant in San Jacinto Co. He is buried in the Texas State Cemetery.

Patricio Antonio Rodrigues was born in San Antonio in 1748, the same year that his father, a soldier, was killed by Apaches. Patricio also became a soldier and was detached with the horse herd while exporting cattle to Louisiana.

George Ruddell served in Virginia and was captured by the British at Ruddell's Fort in 1780. A farmer, he came to Texas in 1834 at the age of 77, and received a land grant in what would become Cherokee County.

Francisco Manuel Salinas was born in 1752. He was a member of the Cavalry Company of the Royal Presidio of San Antonio de Bexar, under Governor Don Domingo Cabello. In 1782, Salinas participated in a cattle drive for Bernardo de Galvez by herding horses.

Pedro Xavier Salinas was confirmed in San Fernando Church, San Antonio de Bexar in 1759. He was a "cattle hunter" and provided cattle to Bernardo de Galvez for driving to Louisiana to aid the Colonists.

Owen Shannon who settled in Austin County with his wife Margaret is listed in Stephen F. Austin's Register of Families as being 70 years old in when he arrived in Texas in October 1830.

Peter Sides was living in Louisiana and volunteered at the age of 61 to join the Magee-Guiterrez Expedition. Sides died in the Battle of Medina outside San Antonio in 1813, and his grave has been marked on that site.

William Smithers/Smothers was one of "The Old 300." He was a noted guide, woodsman, and Indian fighter. He reputedly spent a month on Galveston Island in 1810 at the age of 48. Smothers is on record as coming to Texas in 1821 with Stephen F. Austin, and he and four other men built Fort Bend.

William Sparks served in North Carolina and came to Texas in 1834 at the age of 73, settling in Nacogdoches County.

Christopher Frederick Stockman of Maryland, served the American Revolution in South Carolina. In 1807, he was living with his family at Orcoquisac, an Indian village at the mouth of the Trinity River. He was expulsed by the Spanish in 1812 and returned after the successful Texas Revolution to Nacogdoches County.

Richard Tice was a sailor and shipmaker who served in New Jersey, first as a fifer then as a private. He moved to Texas around 1842 at the age of 80 years old to be with his only daughter in Washington County.

James Tinsley was from South Carolina. He came to Texas in 1837, settling in Walker County. His widow, Susan, filed a claim for a residual pension after his death.

Evan Thomas Watson of Virginia was one of the first settlers of Red River County.

Benjamin Wightman's son, Elias, was a surveyor for Stephen F. Austin, and persuaded his father and mother to come by sea from Connecticut. They landed at the mouth of Matagorda Bay in early 1829, after surviving a storm that stranded the group of colonists at Aransas Pass for six days.

Stephen Williams, a blacksmith by trade, served in three wars: first, the Revolutionary War, as a Sergeant in North Carolina; then, settling in Spanish Louisiana, he served in the War of 1812; finally, in 1835, at the age of 75, he participated in the siege of Bexar with four of his grandsons. He is buried in the Texas State Cemetery.

XII. Sarah Henry Tate, m. May 24, 1795, Mark Anthony, and settled in Wilkes County, Georgia, soon afterward. The marriage is of record in both Bedford and Campbell Counties.

Col. Caleb Tate, grandson of Henry and Sarah Tate, son of Jesse Tate and Margaret Miller (who were married August 27, 1771), was born in 1774. He was the third Clerk of Franklin County. His tenure of office was from 1813-1838. He served as District Clerk from 1797 to 1805, in place of James Steptoe, the noted Clerk from Bedford who had resigned. Colonel Tate also served as Clerk for the Circuit and Superior Courts of Law and Chancery from 1809 to 1845.

Descended from a family of wealth and culture, he was a gentlemen of courtliness, graciousness, dignity and pride. Selecting the hill of greatest elevation in the village of Rocky Mount, from which was a splendid view of the surrounding hills and valleys, he built his residence. The structure was of brick and followed the English architectual lines so popular at that time. It was built in the shape of the letter T, and was flanked on each side by low wings. Well-proportioned chimneys stood at the ends of the wings, and large ones rose from the main portion of the building. Beautiful woodwork adorned the interior. The yard was shaded by fine old trees, and the walks were box bordered. A profusion of magnolias, lilacs and the old fashioned flowers graced the lawn and garden. A spring at the foot of the hill supplied the home with water. It was the task of the children of the Negro servants to "tote" the water to the "big house on the hill." The house was burnt but was rebuilt on the same foundation and by the original plan.

Colonel Tate was a man of strong character and commanding personality. Strong in his convictions, candid, loyal to his friends, dignified in bearing, resembled closely the old English Baron depicted in history and romance. He was a prominent figure in his community, honored and respected by those of every walk in life. Colonel Tate died December 1, 1857. His property passed from the hands of his heirs by sale on April 17, 1877, to Jesse Prunty. For several years a school was conducted there, presided over by Miss Hattie Doniphan of Lynchburg. The property later became the home of Judge John P. Lee.

THE TINSLEY FAMILY

This family came from Hanover County, Virginia, and later lived in Amherst County before coming to Franklin. Reubin Tinsley, the first to live in Franklin, was the son of Wyatt Tinsley. He was born in 1766, and died Dec. 3, 1831, age 66 years. Tombstone in Tinsley graveyard is on the west side of the highway near Willis Lewis Tinsley's home. He married Frances Tyree, (the marriage bond is in Courthouse in Amherst County) who lived to be 104. She was bitten by a red spider, says her granddaughter, Mrs. Fanny Fishburn. The children of Reubin Tinsley and his wife Frances are:

Reubin, lived at Sydnorsville. His will is in Rocky Mount Courthouse

Elizabeth, born 1787

Polly, born 1798

Willis Lewis, born 1790

John, born 1792, Amherst, married Jane Jacob Tyree

Jacob Tyree, born 1801

Stewart, born 1804 in Franklin County. He is the grandfather of Dr. Tinsley of Bent Mountain, Franklin

Issac, born 1806. Issac and Jacob were two of the original 14 young men composing Richmond College. He died 1881.

Willis Lewis Tinsley, son of Reubin Tinsley and Frances Tyree Tinsley was born Jan. 3, 1790, and died August 16, 1862 of typhoid fever, in his 73rd year. He moved to Franklin about 1794 and with his father built a home two miles north of Sydnorsville. The home was noted for its quantity of boxwood. Willis Lewis Tinsley married in Sept. 1809, Amarilla Goode (born March 20, 1783, d. June 2, 1875) who was the daughter of Benjamin Goode and Elizabeth Camden. Willis Lewis Tinsley was a prominent farmer and tobacco manufacturer of Franklin County. Their children were:

Reubin, who went west

Benjamin, b. 1813, d. 1880, married Emeline Sydney Trent of Appomattox County (daughter of Thomas and Martha Holland Trent) in 1844.

Tipton, married Elizabeth Calhoun, and lived at Catonsville, Md.

Willis

James

Fannie, married Sam Fishburne of Franklin County.

Lizzie

Benjamin Tinsley and Emeline Sydney Trent lived in Richmond, Va. They later moved to Roanoke. Their children were, Mrs. E. T. Kindred of Roanoke, d. 1936, at 92 years; W. H. Tinsley of Salem, d. 1931, at 82 years; and Mrs. W. M. Taylor of Roanoke and Washington, d. 1923, at 92½ years.

and reared a family. The father of Dr. Thompson served as a soldier in the Indian wars of 1835 and 1836, and after peace was secured, returned to Fort Gaines and engaged in the construction of buildings until the time of his death in 1855. His wife died in 1863, aged forty years. Both were exemplary Christians and members of the Methodist church. To this union were born four children, two of whom are living: Dr. P. H., the subject of this sketch, and O. F. Dr. Thompson was reared in southwestern Georgia, received his primary education in the common schools, and in 1872 commenced the study of medicine under Dr. Webb Willis, at Milford, Baker Co. He then attended lectures at Mobile, Ala., and subsequently was graduated from the medical department of the university of Louisiana. He commenced the practice of his profession in Taylor county, Ga., afterward moved to Neshoba county, Miss., and finally permanently located at Bluffton, where he has built up a large and lucrative practice. In addition to this he profitably manages a fine 500-acre plantation. Dr. Thompson is a member of the State Medical society and of the American Medical association, and was a delegate to the ninth medical congress. He is considered one of the best physicians and surgeons in southwestern Georgia. He is very prominent in masonic affairs, and belongs to the blue lodge, chapter and council of this fraternity. Dr. Thompson was married to Miss Willie Tinsley, born Feb. 15, 1858, daughter of Mr. Philip Tinsley, by whom he has had four children: Regina M., Patti H., Hugh and Bessie Olivia. He is a democrat in politics, and in connection with his practice conducts a drug store in Bluffton.

PHILIP TINSLEY, lawyer, and prominent citizen of Bluffton, Clay Co., as well as one of its early settlers, was born in the third district of Lee county, Ga., in 1828, and was the son of Philip Tinsley, a native of Columbia county, Ga., who was born in 1780. He was the son of James Tinsley, a native of Virginia. The great-grandfather of Philip Tinsley, the subject of this sketch, and the head of this family in America, came from England about the year 1700, when a young man, and settled in Virginia. While on his way to this country in a sailing vessel the crew were attacked by pirates and were about to be overpowered, when young Tinsley and others jumped overboard and swam ashore, landing on the shores bordering Virginia and North Carolina. For a day and a night they were in the water, experiencing narrow escapes from death, and much suffering. This brave man was married in Virginia and had a large family of sons and daughters. James Tinsley was the eldest of these children and was reared near the family home and served in the revolutionary war. He moved to Richmond, Va., between 1765 and 1770, where he located on a farm, which he continued to occupy up to the time of his death. He was twice married. His second wife was a Miss Crawford, a cousin of William H. Crawford, governor of Georgia. By the first marriage he had five sons and two daughters, and by the second two daughters and a son, all of whom are now deceased. The father of the subject of this sketch was by the first marriage and was born in Columbia county, where he was reared, receiving an excellent education for the advantages then offered. When a young man he went to Morgan county, Ga., where he married Miss M. A. Tarpley. They moved to Lee county in 1827, and located among the Indians; later he migrated to Randolph county, settling at Fort Gaines, now in Clay county, where he continued to reside until his death. He served in the war of 1812, was at Mobile while the famous battle of New Orleans was fought, and during the Indian wars was one of the officers in command of the fort at Fort Gaines, guarding the women and children while the Indians were passing through the country. He was a very successful farmer, and left a large estate. He died in 1850, a member of the Methodist church. He was a man of hearty and strong constitution, possessing great energy and an iron will. He was an uncompromising democrat. His wife died in 1875, in her eighty-fourth year. To this union were born six children. Two sons and one daughter are now living, as follows: Thomas, living at Blakely, Early county; Ameta, married James Jackson, now living in Alabama; and Philip, the subject of this sketch. Mr. Tinsley was the youngest child, and when eight years old moved with his parents from Lee to Randolph county, where he was educated. When grown he commenced farming for himself and first settled on a farm near Ft. Gaines. In 1854 he moved to a farm near Cuthbert, Randolph Co., where he lived until 1866, when he moved back to Clay county. While living near Ft. Gaines he was twice married. The first wife was Miss Emily Jackson, daughter of John Jackson, a prominent planter of Randolph county, by whom he had two daughters: E. V., married to F. Belcher, and living in Alabama, and V. J., married to W. R. Harrison. His second wife was Miss Mary A. Singleton, of Randolph (now Clay) county, daughter of William N. Singleton, a prosperous planter. To this union one daughter was born, W. M., the wife of Dr. P. H. Thompson, of Bluffton. Mr. and Mrs. Tinsley are consistent members of the Methodist church. In politics he is a democrat, having voted the ticket for forty-five years, and taking a prominent part in the councils of his party. During the latter part of the war he entered the Georgia militia, and was elected captain of Company C, Tenth Georgia regiment. He participated in all the campaigns and battles from Atlanta to Savannah, being wounded at the former place, and at Griswoldville he had ten of his men killed in a place not more than fifteen feet square. The company was in all the battles around Atlanta for about forty days, and in the fighting of July 22 and 28, 1864, when the troops lost 6,000 men. After the surrender Mr. Tinsley returned to his farming interests. He now lives in Bluffton, but has a plantation on Spring creek, Clay Co., a region noted for its fine farms.

CLINCH COUNTY.

WILEY BOOTH, merchant, Dupont, Clinch Co., Ga., son of William Booth, was born in Marion county, Ga., Nov. 1, 1846. His father was a well-to-do, prosperous farmer, and bestowed upon him such education as the country schools afforded. Soon after the war between the states began he enlisted in Company B, Thirty-second Georgia regiment, and was slightly wounded in an engagement on Johnson's island, S. C. At the end of twelve months his mother had him discharged on a writ of habeas corpus, on account of his being under age. He then worked in the government oil cloth works, at Columbus, Ga., and joined the provost guard in that city. As soon as he arrived at conscript age, in 1863, he enlisted in the Twenty-eighth Georgia battalion (Maj. Bonard), Olustee, Fla., and remained with the command until the close of the war. After his return from the army he engaged for several years in farming and saw-milling in Washington county, Fla. He then came to Clinch county and accepted a position as section foreman for the Savannah, Florida & Western railway, in which he continued for eight years. He then embarked in a general merchandise business at Dupont, which he has conducted with unusual success, and continuously increasing patronage. He is among the most progressive and substantial of Clinch county's citizens
